Consolidating Bitlogix Products Under One Company Name

Frisco, Texas, August 5, 2020 – Bitlogix Software LLC announced today that the company’s shareholders and board of directors approved to rename the company name to Bitlogix LLC, effective immediately.

Robert Sterzing, CEO of the company, commented, “Our success in recent times is a testament to our attention to customer needs and our core competency in infrastructure security and IoT network management. The Bitlogix brand is synonymous with advanced control technology, infrastructure hardware products and exceptional software design. The name change reflects the company's focus on software and hardware products in the infrastructure security space. Consolidating the Bitlogix brand and product identities under Bitlogix LLC will increase awareness of Bitlogix in the United States, Europe, and around the world. We are about to begin a process of aggressive brand building and it is critical for us to project a clear image of who we are and the products we create.”
